

Project Status report

Name: Carter Brezinski
Community (UN SD goal): #4 – Quality Education
MVP #: 3
Sprint cycle dates: 11/30/2021

Project Name In Our City

Blurb The goal for this project is to create a learning resource and a forum website to bring more awareness to the differences between the schools within the Regina area.
The UN Sustainable Development Goal primarily focused on in this project is goal #4 – Quality Education, there is a strong likelihood that the other goals will potentially be incorporated or mentioned later.

For Week Ending 11/30/2021

Project Status Yellow/Green

Status Description The reason this current status is yellow/green is because I feel like my website is slightly incomplete since it's not fully published as its own individual website. All other progress I achieved during this sprint made me feel as though I was in the green.

Activities—During the past sprint cycle

During the past sprint, the following activities were completed:

- Develop a commercial-type promotional video for the website, highlighting its core values and making it appear interesting to the customer audience
- Reformat the forum page and add the ability for users to subscribe to different forum threads.
- Create user accounts for my teacher contacts and allow them to post their own stories. If they were uncomfortable with doing this, then I wrote their stories from an anonymous teacher perspective.
- Completed all final documentation including that of the PowerPoint and Class Topic Correlation Document

Project Issues

A bug I was unable to solve was being able to replace the default blue header present in the forum and forum post page. There was no direct editing function to change something such as this in the WordPress settings without directly messing with the default CSS settings.

Project Changes

For the time being due to worries regarding plugins, I decided to continue to keep my website locally hosted instead of moving the server to be hosted on a separate service.

Activities—Planned for Next Week

Future Ideas I would like to explore:

- Publishing the website and having it hosted on a separate server/service, get a website that is secure

-
- Different degrees of user creation when signing up, giving the user to decide if they want to be a poster, a lurker, potentially declare and prove themselves to be a teacher, etc.

Reflection

- Do you feel "on track"?
Overall, for this being the final sprint, I feel relatively happy with my final result of this project. There was a few things I feel as though I could've improved on, completed, or gotten done sooner to allow for more work to get completed in the end. But as a result, I am still very happy with where I am now compared to where I began.
 - What progress do you particularly feel good (great) about?
For this sprint, I feel particularly great about the fact that I received permission from my teacher contacts to post their individual stories to my website. It makes it feel that much more authentic and real.
 - What barriers (if any) do you feel is/are a current impediment to success?
A barrier that interferes with my current success would be the fact that I didn't host/publish my website like I had intended on doing. Thus, that would need to be done before being fully available to the public.
 - What help (if any) do you require to move positively forward?
Only help I would need is for potential resources or tutorials to follow to ensure that the transferring of my data will remain safe, and in-tact should I move over to being hosted on a server.
 - What questions or concerns do you have (if any)?
No concerns that I haven't already expressed above.
-